Morris Sommer, one of the well known citizens of Salt Lake, met a the Second precinct and served in that tragic death in a mine in Park City position for two terms. After retiring of Chicago in the Salt Lake theatre about noon yesterday. The report he took up the practice of mining law last evening attracted a crowd that threw the entire community into consternation-it was so sudden and unexpected. The best information obtainable leads to the belief that death was caused by heart failure, although the judge suffered from a fall in a shaft of the Steele mine south of Park active member in the Tuscarora socie-City, which he was examining at the ty, both when it was a Democratic organization within the Liberal party and time of his death.

Relics of Thousands of Years Ago Now at Yale.

Twenty years or more ago two Belgian engineers, the Siret brothers, while working in southeastern Spain
located a series of prehistoric burial
